

Louis Trebino, Jr.
Chief Information Officer
Harry Fox Agency

Louis A. Trebino, Jr. is the Chief Information Officer for the Harry Fox Agency, Inc. (HFA). In this role, Trebino oversees HFA's information technology activities, which include maintaining the systems that support HFA's ongoing licensing and royalty distribution activities while also extending those systems to support new business opportunities, particularly those in the digital music marketplace. These responsibilities include shaping and implementing the technology aspects of relevant legislation.

Trebino joined the HFA team in July 2006 as Vice President, Program Management. In that role, he helped to shape the company's strategic direction and focused on cross-departmental initiatives. Named CIO in March 2007, he reports to President and CEO Gary Churgin. Trebino also sits on the board of the Digital Data Exchange (DDEX), which defines and implements solutions for the standardization and exchange of digital data between trading partners.

Before joining HFA, Trebino worked with the organization as a consultant at BearingPoint, where he was an instrumental part of HFA's technology Transformation projects from 2001-2005. His last title at BearingPoint was Senior Manager - Communications and Content Practice.

From 1990-2001, prior to BearingPoint, Trebino worked at Telcordia Technologies, a leading global provider of telecommunications network software and services, where he managed projects for such clients as Pacific Bell. Before that, he was Staff Manager, Economic Analysis at NYNEX (now Verizon). Trebino has a B.S. from Montclair State University in Business Administration and Accounting, with a minor in Spanish.
